Table of contents

Introduction: The Artful Anti-Colonialist

1. Origins: 'The Most Completely Political Negro'

2. Putting Empire in Black and White: Padmore's Ideas about Race and Empire

3. 'The Long, Long Night is Over': A War of Opportunity?

4. Writing Anti-Imperial Solidarity from London: George Padmore's Colonial Journalism, 1940-1951

5. The Psychological Moment: The Colonial Office, Pan-Africanism, and the Problem of the Soviet Union, 1946-1950

6. A Buttress for the 'Beacon Light'

7. The Era of Padmore the 'Outsider': Nation, Diaspora, and Modernity, 1950-1956

8. Ghana, Death, and the Afterlife

Conclusion: 'The Soliloquy of Africa'