Prologue
Introduction

1. British royals at home with empire

2. Naturalising British rule

3. Building new Jerusalems: global Britishness and settler cultures in South Africa and New Zealand

4. 'Positively cosmopolitan': Britishness, respectability, and imperial citizenship

5. The empire comes home: colonial subjects and the appeal for imperial justice

Postscript and conclusion
Bibliography
Index