

Contents

Introduction

Agnès Delahaye, Elodie Peyrol-Kleiber, L. H. Roper & Bertrand Van Ruymbeke

Part I: Tensions within imperial projects

1 Global trade and its benefits for 'the nation': the examples of early modern France and Britain

Susanne Lachenicht

2 Comparing and criticising early modern imperial policies in the Age of Revolution: Abbé Raynal's Histoire philosophique et politique des deux Indes

François Brizay

3 Global pursuits: English overseas initiatives of the long seventeenth century in perspective

L. H. Roper

Part II: The limits of imperial control

4 The limits of royal control over migration to Spanish America in the sixteenth century

Eric Roulet

5 Imperial struggles, colonisation and the Dutch slave trade in seventeenth century New Netherland

Anne-Claire Faucquez

6 The control of unfree labour across the Dutch empire in the eighteenth century

Elisabeth Heijmans & Rafaël Thiebaut

Part III: Local adaptations and developments

7 Settler colonialism and early American history

Trevor Burnard & Agnès Delahaye

8 Colonising the Cape of Good Hope: company policy and settlers' interests in a contested space of European occupation in Southern Africa

Marilyn Garcia-Chapleau

9 Shipping mules in the eighteenth century: New England's equine exports to the West Indies

Charlotte Carrington-Farmer

Epilogue: Perspectives on the mechanisms and impacts of overseas colonisation in the early modern era - then and now

Bertrand Van Ruymbeke