

Introduction

1. Suppression of the Atlantic slave trade: abolition from ship to shore – Robert Burroughs

2. The politics of slave-trade suppression – Richard Huzzey

3. ‘Tis enough that we give them liberty’? Liberated Africans at Sierra Leone in the early era of slave-trade suppression – Emma Christopher

4. A ‘most miserable business’: naval officers’ experiences of slave-trade suppression – Mary Wills

5. British and African health in the anti-slave-trade squadron – John Rankin

6. Slave-trade suppression and the culture of anti-slavery in nineteenth-century Britain – Robert Burroughs

7. Slave-trade suppression and the image of West Africa in nineteenth-century Britain – David Lambert

8. History, memory, and commemoration of Atlantic slave-trade suppression – Richard Huzzey and John McAleer

Bibliography

Index